COLD WAR TALK IN A HOT SHIRT. KEY WEST, FLA.

Solomon in all his glory was never arrayed like Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson (right) as he confers with President Truman at the latter's vacation resort in Key West. They discussed the master defense plan that Johnson will take with him to the big parley at The Hague, Netherlands. After the talk, Johnson announced that "I think the nation's defenses are sufficient unto the needs of the moment." This was seen as a reply to General Dwight Eisenhower's recent statement that our defenses have been permitted to fall below the safety mark.
